Jon Jaffe, President

Jon Jaffe is Vice President, Western Region President, of Miami-based Lennar Corporation. Located at the company's Western Region headquarters in Aliso Viejo, he heads one of the West's top homebuilders.

Jaffe came to California from Florida in 1995 to lead Lennar's entry into the California market. Starting from the ground up, he built Lennar into one of the largest builders in the state. The company's tremendous growth includes the combination of Lennar's homebuilding operations with Pacific Greystone Corp. and US Home. Lennar's Western region currently controls more than 50,000 homesites and 11 home building operations in three states.

Jaffe is an undergraduate of the University of Florida and attended graduate studies in architecture at Georgia Tech University.

He enjoys spending time with his wife Karen and three kids playing tennis, enjoying the beach life and coaching Little League teams.
